

CONTINUITY & RESILIENCE

2 Day BCI Exercise Planning Course

Course Description:

This course is designed for those business continuity professionals who have been tasked with developing, managing and maintaining an exercise programme within their organization.

The success of any Business Continuity Management Programme depends entirely on organisational capability to respond effectively when an incident occurs. Exercising ensures the Business Continuity Plan(s) remain up to date and relevant; and ensures that those people involved in the response and recovery process, know and understand what is expected of them.

This course equips the business continuity professional with the tools, skills and knowledge required to develop, manage and maintain a programme of exercises that can be used to validate the effectiveness of the Business Continuity Plan. The training is a combination of classroom lectures, discussions, simulation exercise, videos and a role play. This workshop offers a high- paced, structured, eye-opening and comprehensive learning experience.

This course entitles you to 16 CPE credits.

You will learn how to:

- Develop an exercise program
- Develop a specific exercise
- Conduct and experience the exercise you will have developed

Who should attend:

- Business Continuity Professionals
- Those tasked with developing, managing and maintaining an exercise programme.
- The course is intended for those BCM practitioners who are tasked with delivering a program of one or more tests and exercises that will validate the organization's BC plans.
- Business Continuity professionals who have been tasked with developing, managing and maintaining an exercise programme within their organization
- Functional and front-line heads and supervisors
- Business Continuity support departments personnel
- Students should be familiar with BCM program planning and terminology, however, please note that the course will not equip students to immediately lead the delivery of large-scale, multi-partner, live exercises. But it will establish the basic building blocks of knowledge to enable them to participate as more effective team members, ready and willing to build on the experience gained in this course.
